Incipient Genocide
The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and, behold, a greater than Jonah is here.

Executive Summary

Assyrians are the only autochthonous people of Iraq, having lived in their ancestral lands in north Iraq since 5000 B.C. Assyrians are Christians, belonging to three main denominations: The Holy Apostolic Catholic Assyrian Church of the East, the Syriac Orthodox Church and the Chaldean Church of Babylon. The native language of Assyrians is neo-Syriac (neo-Aramaic). This distinct identity of Assyrians, especially their Christian faith, sets them apart from the rest of the population.

Assyrians comprised 8% (1.5 million) of the Iraqi population in April of 2003. Since then 50% have fled the country. Of the 750,000 Iraqi refugees in Jordan up to 150,000 are Assyrians. Of the 1.2 million Iraqi refugees in Syria, 70,000 to 500,000 are Assyrians.

Except for churches, this report does not document the effects of the ISIS invasion of north Iraq in 2014, which drove 200,000 Assyrians from their homes and villages and saw more than 45 churches and several Assyrian archaeological sites destroyed by ISIS.

From 1995 to 2016 462 Assyrians were killed. For the years 1995-2002 there were 19 murders, averaging 2.37 per year. After the liberation of Iraq in 2003, the average number of murders for the years 2003-2014 was 44.3, 1865% higher than for the years 1995-2002. The geographic distribution of the murders was 39.4% in north Iraq, 58.7% in central Iraq and 1.9% in south Iraq. Kurds, Sunnis, Shiites and al-Qaeda engaged in murdering Assyrians. Examples included:

- A 2 month old infant kidnapped, beheaded, roasted and returned to his parents on a bed of rice
- 14 year old Ayad Tariq decapitated because he is a "dirty Christian sinner"
- A 14 year old boy crucified in his own village in Mosul
- Fr. Paulos Iskander (Paul Alexander) kidnapped, beheaded and dismembered

5 priests were kidnapped and released after ransom was paid. 7 priests and 3 deacons were murdered, for a total of 15. 8 of these occurred in Baghdad, 7 in Mosul.

Incipient Genocide
The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

118 churches were attacked or bombed since June, 2004: 45 in Baghdad, 64 in Mosul, 7 in Kirkuk and 1 in Ramadi.¹

At least 13 young women were abducted and raped, causing some of them to commit suicide.

Female students were targeted in Basra and Mosul for not wearing veils; some had nitric acid squirted on their faces. Elders of a village in Mosul were warned not to send females to universities.

Mahdi Army personnel circulated a letter warning all Christian women to veil themselves.

Al-Qaeda moved into an Assyrian neighborhood and began collecting the jizya and demanding that females be sent to the mosque to be married off to Muslims.

Assyrian businesses were targeted. 95% of liquor stores were attacked, defaced or bombed. 500 Assyrian shops in a Dora market were burned in one night.

Property was confiscated by Kurds in the north and Shiites in Baghdad.

Kurdish authorities denied foreign reconstruction assistance for Assyrian communities and used public works projects to divert water and other vital resources from Assyrian to Kurdish communities. Kurdish forces blockaded Assyrian villages.

Children were kidnapped and forcibly transferred to Kurdish families.

Introduction

A systematic campaign of persecution of the Church of the East, Chaldean, Syriac Orthodox and Syriac Catholic Christians (collectively Assyrians) of Iraq is unfolding. It began in the Kurdish regions of north Iraq shortly after the first Gulf war and spread to Baghdad and Basra after the liberation of Iraq in April of 2003. Since 2004 it has intensified and is now openly declared in some areas of Iraq.

The persecution is not restricted to a single location, it is occurring in Basra in the south, in Baghdad in the center, and in the Kurdish controlled areas in the north. It is targeting Assyrians physically, economically, mentally, religiously and culturally.

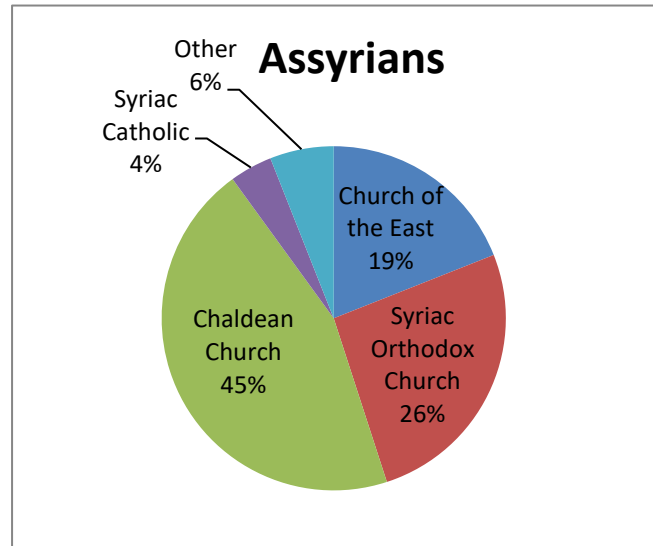

This campaign is targeting Iraq's only indigenous group, the Assyrians, and has forced nearly 50% of the Assyrians to flee the country². Assyrians comprised 8% (1.5 million) of the Iraqi population in April of 2003. Of the 750,000 Iraqi refugees in Jordan, Christian Solidarity International estimates that up to 150,000 are Assyrians. Of the 1.2 million Iraqi refugees in Syria, 70,000 to 500,000 are Assyrians. What is causing this Assyrian flight?

Random Violence?

There is a civil war, or something very close to it, happening in Iraq. Thousands of Sunnis and Shiites have been killed. Are Assyrians the random victims of this violence or are they targeted specifically because of their ethnic, religious, cultural and linguistic distinctiveness?

Assyrians³ are ethnically distinct from Arabs and Kurds. They are the only autochthonous people of Iraq, having lived in their ancestral lands in north Iraq since 5000 B.C. Assyrians are Christians, belonging to three main denominations: The Holy Apostolic Catholic Assyrian Church of the East, the Syriac Orthodox Church and the Chaldean Church of Babylon. The native language of Assyrians is neo-Syriac⁴ (neo-Aramaic).

This distinct identity of Assyrians, especially their Christian faith, sets them apart from the rest of the population.

Since this report was published, the exodus of Assyrians has dramatically increased and is now near 50%, as reported in the 2007 Annual Report Of The United States Commission On International Religious Freedom (<http://www.aina.org/reports/uscirf2007.pdf>).

⁴ Modern Assyrian (neo-Syriac) is derived from Assyrian Aramaic (or Imperial Aramaic), the eastern branch of Aramaic that was made the second (after Akkadian) official language of Assyria in 752 BC. The western branch of Aramaic, Palestinian Aramaic, is now extinct. See <http://www.aina.org/articles/akkadianwords.htm>.

Incipient Genocide
The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

Whereas Sunni-Shiite violence is characterized by mutual aggression, Muslim⁵-Assyrian violence is unidirectional: Assyrians are exclusively the victims. Assyrians are unarmed and have not engaged in any acts of aggression.

Muslim violence on Assyrians is primarily driven by deep religious prejudice and the strict application of *Shari'a*⁶ by Jihadists⁷.

Being unarmed, oppressed and disadvantaged by centuries of prejudice and dhimmi⁸ status, the Assyrians have become the targets of persecution country-wide, from Kurds, Shiites and Sunnis. We shall show in the following pages that since Assyrians are not capable of defending themselves and are targeted as a class because of their distinct identity, what is now unfolding in Iraq can be termed an incipient genocide.

Definition of Genocide

We shall define genocide as prescribed in the *UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide*⁹ (UNCG), which is the legal definition of genocide. There are other ways of defining genocide¹⁰, but they need not concern us.

Article 2 of UNCG lays down the meaning of genocide:

In the present Convention, genocide means any of the following acts committed with intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, as such:

- (a) Killing members of the group;
- (b) Causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group;
- (c) Deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part;
- (d) Imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group;
- (e) Forcibly transferring children of the group to another group.

In the following pages we shall show that acts of type (a), (b), (c) and (e) have been committed against Assyrians in Iraq.

Sources

This report is based on published material. It is to be noted that a great number of crimes against Assyrians are unreported and unpublished. Many Assyrian refugees in Syria, Jordan and various European and American cities have stated that they or family members or friends were victims of murder and violence; but many of these refugees were too fearful to report the incidents, even when living outside of Iraq.

⁵ We shall use the term Muslim to include Kurds and Sunni and Shiite Arabs, but not Turkmen.

⁶ Shari'a is the Koranic religious law that cannot be superseded by any other law, such as secular, civil or international law.

⁷ Jihadists in Iraq are not only Al-Qaeda Sunnis, but Muqtada al-Sadr Shiites as well.

⁸ A legal status of Christians, Jews and Zoroastrians which gives nominal religious independence in exchange for acceptance of humiliating regulations designed to enforce the Koran's command that they "feel themselves subdued" (Sura 9:29). See <http://www.dhimmi.org> and <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dhimmi>.

Killing Members of the Group

Appendix 1 lists the Assyrians murdered in Iraq from 1995 to 2012. 315 Assyrians were killed during this period.

Figure 1 shows the number of murders by year. For the years 1995-2002 there are 19 murders, averaging 2.37 per year (counting 1996, 2000 and 2001, which had no murders and are not shown in the graph).

After the liberation of Iraq in 2003, the average number of murders for the years 2003-2012 is 50.75, which is 2137% higher than for the years 1995-2002.

Kaneesat al-Si'aood (The Church of Ascension) in Baghdad was attacked by a rocket bomb. The bomb caused damage to the church building and made a hole in the church dome.⁴⁵

February 1 2006. 1 church bombed.

The Baghdad Seventh-day Adventist Church was bombed for the second time in two years, injuring an armed guard, one of two permanently stationed to protect the church compound.⁴⁶

January 29, 2006. 4 churches bombed.

Car bombs exploded outside the Vatican embassy and near four churches in Iraq, killing at least three people.

In Kirkuk, three civilians were killed and one wounded in the attack on the Church of the Virgin, and six civilians were hurt in the blast outside an Orthodox church.

In Baghdad, car bombs exploded outside St Joseph's Catholic Church in the suburb of Sina'a and an Anglican church in the eastern Nidhal area.⁴⁷

November 2, 2005. 1 church bombed.

At approximately 5:00 P.M. a car bomb exploded near the Church of Mar Giwargis (St. George) in the Assyrian quarter of Almas district in Kirkuk. 3 were killed.⁴⁸

July 16, 2005 1 church bombed.

A small explosion rocked the Assyrian Church in Habbaniya, Ramadi in Iraq. There was some damage to the roof of the church.

December 7, 2004. 2 churches bombed.

The Al-Tahira Chaldean Catholic Church and Armenian church that was under construction were bombed in Mosul. The first blast struck the al-Tahira ("the pure," in reference to the Virgin Mary) Church about 2:30 p.m. in al-Shifa' neighborhood, eastern Mosul. Ten armed men stormed the church, planted explosives throughout it, and set the bombs off wounding three people and destroying most of it. An hour later, gunmen bombed in al-Wahda neighborhood, western Mosul, an Armenian church under construction. No casualties were reported there.⁴⁹

November 8, 2004. 1 church bombed.

St Bahnam's Catholic church in Dora, Baghdad was bombed, killing 3 people and wounded 40. Police said a car bomb had exploded outside the church, but witnesses said it appeared explosives were planted nearby.⁵⁰

The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

October 16, 2004. 5 churches bombed.

Five churches were bombed in Baghdad in a coordinated attack.

The church of Saint Joseph in the west of the Iraqi capital was hit at about 4:00 am (0100 GMT).

Twenty minutes later, another blast ripped through the streets at another Saint Joseph church, in Dora, southern Baghdad. After another 20 minutes, Saint Paul's church was struck in the same area.

At 4:50 am, the Roman Catholic St. George church in the central district of Karrada was rocked by a blast and engulfed in flames, leaving the wood-built sanctuary completely charred.

A fifth explosion occurred about an hour later at Saint Thomas church in Mansour, to the west.

An artillery shell, believed to be intended for the church, was fired into a car park between a hotel and Saint George's Anglican Church.⁵¹

September 11, 2004. 1 church bombed.

A car bomb exploded outside the Virgin Mary Seventh-Day Adventist Church in the Al-Sa'doun Park in the center of Baghdad.⁵²

September 10, 2004. 1 church bombed.

A bomb exploded at the Assyrian Anglican Church at al-Andalus Street in Baghdad. The explosion occurred during the night.⁵³

August 1, 2004. 5 churches bombed.

Five Assyrian, and one Armenian, Churches were bombed simultaneously in Baghdad and Mosul. Twelve Assyrians were killed and some 60 injured:

1. Church Sayidat al-Najat (Our Lady of Salvation) - Karrada, Baghdad
2. Church Sayidat al-Zohour (Our Lady of the Flowers) - Karrada, Baghdad (Armenian Catholic Church)
3. Sts. Peter & Paul, Dora, Baghdad
4. St. Paul Church - Center of Mosul
5. St. Elia, Baghdad
6. St. Mary's Church in east Baghdad (car bomb disarmed by police)⁵⁴

Attacks on Women

In December, 2006 Iraqi soldiers in Baghdad raided the house of Luana, a 22 year-old Assyrian Christian, on pretense of searching for insurgents. Luana lives with her brother, her family having immigrated to Sweden. Her brother is not home at the time of the raid. The soldiers ask unusual questions, give her strange looks. Two days later a soldier returns, enters her home, places his hand over her mouth and threatens to wait for her brother and kill him if she makes a sound. He drags her to the bedroom and rapes her. When finished, he instructs her not to file a police report else he will kill her brother.⁵⁶

Young Christian women are abducted and raped. Sources in some communities of nuns in Baghdad have relayed stories they witnessed. On October 8, 2006 young Christian women were abducted but under different circumstances: one at home as her helpless family could do nothing but watch; the other, at an open market where four armed men spirited her away in a car leaving behind a distraught mother. Often incidents do not end with the prisoner's release. In one case in Baghdad, the victim committed suicide after the ransom was paid and she went home, because of the torture and sexual violence she suffered. In another case, a young woman talked to her family by phone and told them: "I'm dead", referring to being gang raped. She eventually committed suicide whilst still in the hands of her tormenters. Unofficial estimates put the number of young women and girls abducted at 12.⁵⁷

Church leaders serving the Christian community of Karakush, Mosul, received a letter from Islamic militants in the last week of October, 2004, ordering them to allow Christian women to marry Muslim men (which in Muslim eyes means the women effectively convert to Islam). This, said the letter, would enable the women to be "blessed" and "purified" by their marriages.⁵⁸

Attacks on Students

On December 11, 2006 an unidentified Islamic group placed flyers at the Student Union at Mosul University; the flyers contained messages directed at Assyrian students and were placed in areas where Assyrian students congregate. The flyers warned the Christian Assyrian students that "in cases where non-Muslims do not conform to wearing the Hijab (head cover for women) and are not conservative with their attire in accordance with the Islamic way, the violators will have the Shari'a and the Islamic Law applied to them."⁵⁹

On June 14, 2006 at approximately 11:30 A.M. Iraqi Policemen approached a group of Assyrian students leaving the University of Mosul after completing their final exams and, at the order of the police group leader, started severely beating and harassing the students. The police held the students down and shaved their heads as a form of public embarrassment and forced them to walk down the street to further display their 'shame' to the public.⁶⁰

On January 29, 2006 a group of Muslim students at the University of Mosul attacked Assyrian students. Several fatwas (religious edicts) were issued by Islamic militias associated with Islamic religious schools against Christians in Iraq. During the attacks, Muslim students chanted anti Christian slogans declaring their victims "sinners, infidels, and agents of the West." According to reports, the attackers also urged the "expulsion of the Crusaders and sinners from schools and public institutions."⁶¹

On March 15, 2005 some 30 members Muqtada al-Sadr's al-Mahdi Army attacked a group of Assyrian engineering College students of Basra University. The students were having a picnic at al-Andalus Park in downtown Basra when a hooded gang attacked in the name of Islam and began to beat them with batons and sticks. Zahra Ashor was killed and fifteen others students were badly injured. When a fellow student attempted to help Zahra, he was shot in the head. The attacks were because the female students were not wearing the Islamic hijab (veil) and because the students were listening to music.⁶²

A letter received on November 2, 2004 by church leaders serving the Christian community of Karakush, Mosul, announced Muslims' intention of killing one person in every Christian family, as a punishment for the women not covering their heads and going to university. This followed pressure and threats from Islamic extremists against all women in Mosul, requiring them to cover their head with the hijab. A Christian woman was killed around 26th October for having her head uncovered. Two other Christian women who were seen bareheaded in a market had nitric acid squirted in their faces.⁶³

The ChaldoAssyrians Student and Youth Union of Mosul announced in a press release dated 10/18/2004 that 1500 Assyrians students stopped attending Mosul University effective 10/16/2004. The Student Union cited intense pressure on the Christian students by Muslims, especially on female students to wear the Muslim vale, and a lack of security as the basis for the boycott. The students had been harassed repeatedly and had received numerous threats from Muslims.⁶⁴

On February 17, 2004 at the Ankawa Boys High School, a group of Kurdish students from the Kurdistan Student Union entered classes and while classes were in session, they distributed applications to students to join the Kurdistan Student Union. The ChaldoAssyrian Student and Youth Union protested the illegal act.⁶⁵

Inflicting Psychological Terror

The attack on religious institutions and symbols has a profound effect on the Assyrians of Iraq. The case of Fr. Ganni, discussed above, very clearly demonstrates this. It is not enough that he and three deacons were killed; by booby trapping their car, in which they lay mortally wounded, by explosives, the murderers sought to terrorize the Assyrians by instilling a feeling of impotence and helplessness in them, by denying them the decency of tending to their dead.

There is no greater symbol of life and hope for Christians than the Cross and the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. This very symbolism was inverted and used to terrorize the residents of the al-Basra district in Mosul. On October 10, 2006 a 14 year old boy was crucified in al-Basra. An email from a priest in Sweden, Adris Hanna, describes the Muslim terror campaign against the Christians in Iraq:

The Syriac-Orthodox priest Paulos Iskandar was kidnapped this Monday, October 9, and beheaded today Wednesday October 11.

The Bishop in Mosul wrote me an email tonight and told me that the funeral will be held in Mosul tomorrow.

Christians are living a terrified life in Mosul and Baghdad. Several priests have been kidnapped, girls are being raped and murdered and a couple of days ago a fourteen year old boy was crucified in the Christian neighborhood Albasra.

I have also spoken to a group of nuns that were robbed and treated brutally on their way between Baghdad to Amman in Jordan.

The murder of father Paulus is the final blow for Christians, and now only hell is expected for the Christians of Iraq.

We the oriental Christians in Sweden and the rest of the Western world must protest against the genocide. We must do what we can to stop the rape, threats, hatred, robberies, murders... We must do something.⁶⁶

The award winning Swedish journalist Nuri Kino⁶⁷ contacted the family of the crucified boy on behalf of AINA. He reported that the family was in shock and did not want to speak to anyone not only because of their intense grief, but because they did not want to provoke additional violence. The family intended to leave Iraq as soon as possible. So effective was the terror effect of the crucifixion that even the victim's family could not properly grieve for its son. The Assyrian community in al-Basra was terrified.

Letters from Sadr Shiites

An undated letter issued by Muqtada al-Sadr's Mahdi army to Christians in Baghdad ordered Christian women to veil themselves or face grave consequences. The letter, obtained and translated by AINA on May 30, 2007⁶⁸, stated that the Virgin Mary was not unveiled and so Christian women should not be unveiled. The letter ended with an ominous note that committees have been established to monitor the Christian populace and enforce the decree. Here is the Arabic letter:

The Legal Veil

Allah be praised, said in His perfect and noble book:

In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful

(And do not display yourselves like that of the times of ignorance) -- Affirmed Allah the Mighty
Surah Al-Ahzab -- Verse 33

According to Ali, Prince of Believers (peace be upon him), he said, "We were with the Prophet (saas⁶⁹) and he said, Tell me what is best for women? The Prince of Believers said, when I went back to Fatima (peace be upon her) and told her about what the Prophet (saas) said to us, Fatima said: 'It is best for women not to see men and for the men not to see them.'"

And in the Noble Narrative (She who went out of her home adorned with finery and ornaments or scented with perfumes is under the cursing of Allah, angels and the people all together until she goes back home. Neither a religious duty nor a gift shall be accepted from her until she performs the ritual ablution.)

According to martyr Mohammad Mohammad Sadiq al-Sadr (Sacred be his noble secret): "Was the Virgin Mary (peace be upon her) unveiled so that Christian women be allowed to be unveiled? Was Fatima al-Zahra unveiled? And were the wives of the Caliphs in the First Caliphate or others unveiled? No and then no...Allah forbid and far be it from all of them."

Furthermore, His Eminence Mohammad al-Sadr prohibited self-adoration and not wearing the veil in a number of religious edicts, including:

Question: What is the punishment of the woman who does not commit to the legal veil?

Answer: In the name of the Supreme Being, She is an adulteress, and she even proclaims sinfulness, challenges and fights Allah and his Prophet and ignores and neglects religion. So what would be her fate but hell and that is best outcome for her?

Question: What measure should be taken against a woman who disobeys her father, husband, or her guardian by not committing to the legal veil?

Answer: In the name of the Supreme Being, they must order her in a courteous manner to abstain from the forbidden. If she refuses, he then must guide and educate her religiously in order to convince her. If she is not convinced still, then they must imprison her at home and do not expose her to the forbidden interaction with men.

Note: Based on this, special committees have been established to follow up on this matter and she who is warned is excused.

This letter seems to be written by someone who is not an Arab and/or someone whose native language is not Arabic, but by someone who reads and knows some Arabic from the Koran. Certain grammar or spellings used in the letter indicate a non-Iraqi or Arabic speaking native. Notice the spelling of the word "min-na" (meaning from us, which is written mistakenly on two occasions) and also notice the strange yet distinctive spellings of the cities of Najaf and Tehran, which indicate the author is possibly of Persian, Kurdish or Afghani origin.

Al-Qaeda in the Dora Assyrian Quarter

In early March, 2007 al-Qaeda moved into Dora, a predominantly Assyrian neighborhood in south Baghdad, and began imposing strict Islamic law. The Christian Assyrians were being forced to pay the *jizya*⁷⁰, the poll tax demanded by the Koran which all Christians and Jews must pay in exchange for being allowed to live and practice their faith as well as being entitled to 'Muslim protection' from outside aggression.

⁷⁰ The jizya has been collected since the arrival of Islam in 630 A.D. The last systematic collection was by the Ottomans (Turks), which came to an end only in 1918, when the Ottoman Empire was defeated and partitioned in World War One.

Incipient Genocide
The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

Christian Assyrian wives were instructed to go to a certain mosque and pay, which they did out of fear. The stated reason for the payment was "we do the fighting and you pay to support."⁷¹

The following testimony was obtained by AINA⁷²:

Baghdad Observer:

Elements of Al-Qaeda have moved into Dora from Anbar. No security forces are to be seen there, it seems to be abandoned by both Iraqi and Coalition. In Hay Al-Mechaneek (which is in Dora across the bridge) people have been warned by these insurgents to uninstall the satellite dishes since this is "Haram" (forbidden) in Islam. In Dora where christians live in Hay Al-Mualimeen [Teachers quarter] and Hay Al-Athorieen [Assyrian quarter] is where they are telling people to convert, leave, pay Jizya taxation.

Email From Dora Resident:

This has been going on for the past week, and it started even before Easter. We talked to many people within the American Embassy and Iraqi Government, but it seems no body really cares, because they have done nothing, or sometimes I wonder if they care at all. Neither the Iraqi nor the US army have any activity there, and they have delivered Dora to insurgents; and above all the US army went and put a camp in the Chaldean church (Babylon Theology College) to raise the hate among those Muslims toward Christians, as they are seeing them allies for Americans, and that worsen things more.

Testimony of Dora Resident, Currently A Refugee In Syria:

Yes it is true, today a family [name withheld] arrived from Dora/Mualimeen street, and they said some terrorists knocked on their door and when they opened the door they were told to either pay money (jizya) to support the insurgents or convert to Islam, or leave the house within 24 hours or else be killed.

Al-Qaeda's Hatem Al-Razaq, the sheik of the Al-Noor mosque in Dora, toured Dora, visiting each Assyrian family and instructing them to pay 250,000 Iraqi dinars ($190), saying this sum is the jizya because "you are not Muslims." Families that could not pay this sum were told to send one family member to the mosque on Friday to announce their conversion to Islam. Families who refused to do this were told they must leave their homes immediately and not take any of their belongings with them because "your properties belong to the mosque."⁷³

On May 18 St. George Assyrian Church in Dora was firebombed. Families were abandoning their homes and seeking refuge in Churches:⁷⁴

- 14 families had fled to the Al-So'ud Chaldean Church.
- 7 families had fled to Saint Odisho Assyrian Church. 3 families were in the church and 4 in the Saint Adai Patriarchate, the old church building.
- An unknown number of families had fled to Saint George Chaldean Church.

Incipient Genocide
The Ethnic Cleansing of the Assyrians of Iraq

On May 6 the Patriarch for the Chaldeans, Emmanuel III Delly, strongly criticized the Iraqi authorities and foreign troops and called for decisive intervention from the government and international community to stop the hemorrhage of persecuted Christians from Iraq. "Christians are killed, chased out of their homes before the very eyes of those who are supposed to be responsible for their safety," he said.⁷⁵

On May 9 Patrirach Dinkha IV of the Assyrian Church of the East described as "inhuman" such acts perpetrated against Christians. He told Iraq's prime minister: "Muslim parties and groups that are perpetrating violent acts against Christians are far from Islam; so we ask the prime minister and MPs to take the necessary steps to stop the violence that is affecting all the sons of Iraq."⁷⁶

On May 18 Mar Addai II, the Patriarch of the Ancient Assyrian Church of the East, called on the Prime Minister and the Iraqi parliament to put an end to the tragic situation that Christians in Iraq are enduring due to the constant threats and attacks against them. He told the Catholic News Agency "Only the families that agree to give a daughter or sister in marriage to a Muslim can remain, which means that the entire nuclear family will progressively become Muslim." Also, Assyrian families are forced to turn over their homes as ransom for their kidnapped relatives.⁷⁷

For those Assyrians leaving Dora, Muslims were forcing them to pay an "exit fee" of $200 per person and $400 per car.⁷⁸

On May 21st the Reverend Temathaus Eisha, pastor of the Church of St. Shimoni Dora, confirmed that the information published about the forced displacement of Christian Assyrians from their homes in the district was accurate. He added that the conditions were horrible, especially in the Al-Ta'ma, Al-iskan, Al-mo'alimeen, Al-shurTa, Al-sitten, and Asia neighborhoods. He added that the majority of Assyrians have abandoned these areas. He said that the other churches, such as St. Jacob, St. John, The Apostles Church, St. George, St. Zaya, Mar Mr. Bihnam, St. Mathew, as well as a number of monasteries, were all abandoned.⁷⁹

On June 4 St. Jacob Church, Near the Asia Neighborhood (Hay Asya) in Dora, was attacked and the Christian guards killed, the church was looted and would be turned into a mosque. St. John the Baptist Church near the Hay Al-Athoriyeen (Assyrian quarter) was also looted.⁸⁰

The attacks on Assyrians in Dora had by June 4th spread to Yarmouk, Qadisiya, and Mansour, where the jizya was being demanded.⁸¹

In October, 2004 Islamic militants were knocking on the doors of Christian homes in Mosul, demanding money. They argued that since the Christians do not contribute weapons and do not fight, they must make a financial donation instead. This follows exactly the model of classical Islam, whereby Christians and Jews were excluded from fighting for the Islamic state but instead required to pay a special tax – jizya – to cover the costs of their protection.

Leaflets were distributed with the message: "Christians go; leave Iraq." Word was passed around in the mosques, telling Muslims not to buy anything from the Christians. Not only are they infidels, it was said, but also they would soon be leaving, so the Muslims would be able to take their homes and property for free.⁸²

Al-Qaeda had previously threatened Assyrians. The note shown on the right was delivered sometime before June 20, 2004 to an Assyrian working for the Coalition Provisional Authority.

Deliberately Inflicting On the Group Conditions of Life Calculated To Bring About Its Physical Destruction in Whole or in Part

Attacks on Businesses

Assyrian businesses are systematically targeted and attacked, particularly businesses that are perceived to be "un-Islamic."

Because Islam prohibits the consumption and sale of alcohol, liquor stores are owned primarily by Assyrians. Liquor stores have been burned, looted and defaced in Mosul, Baghdad and Basra. Since 2003 approximately 95% percent of these stores have closed because of Islamic threats.⁸³ Store owners have been threatened, beaten and murdered. The following is an example:

In August 2004, masked gunmen shot and killed Sabah Macardige in Baghdad during broad daylight for selling alcohol. According to witnesses, Macardige had received warnings to stop selling liquor. In April, liquor store owner Sabah Sadiq's brother was kidnapped. Sadiq was shot on his way to pay the ransom demanded by the kidnappers. In June, armed intruders broke into Sami Tammu's liquor store in Baghdad and shot and killed him when he tried to escape.⁸⁴

A fatwa issued in May 2003 by Sheikh Mohammed al Fartousi, a Sadr Shiite, banned alcohol and other things:

The cinemas in Al-Saadun Street show indecent films. I warn them: if in a week they do not change, we will act differently with them. We warn women and the go-betweens who take them to the Americans: If in a week from now they do not change their attitude, the murder of these women is sanctioned [by Islam]. This warning also goes out to sellers of alcohol, radios and televisions.⁸⁵

Music stores are also targeted by Muslims. The case of Sargon, who fled to Jordan in early 2007, is typical:

Sargon, was known in Baghdad for his collection of both Arabic and English music. He ran a famous music store with an office on the second floor. The Shiite Mehdi militia forbade all music and sent a threatening letter to him. They demanded him to close the store. The first time he was threatened he did not take it seriously. The second time he was barely able to save his life. They pushed a wheel chair with a bomb towards him; he gave way and understood the same second that it was over and that he had to leave Iraq. He closed the store but continued to sell CDs and videos from his home. He was robbed and assaulted. The next day he applied for a passport, sold all he owned and took the bus to Amman. He even left all his clothes. "If we would be able to return we would have returned. But we do not have a chance. Maybe one day, but right now we are on the black list of the Islamists."⁸⁶

On September 7, 2005 at approximately 3 A.M. a major fire was started in the Assyrian district Dora. The fire damaged more than 500 shops in the Assyrian shopping district. Fire trucks did not arrive for hours and the shop owners, observing a curfew that mandated all to stay in their homes or else be shot, could only watch from their homes as their shops burned in flames. Arson was suspected.⁸⁷

Confiscation of Property

The 2007 report of the United States Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) describes Kurdish treatment of Assyrians in North Iraq:

Government complicity in religiously-motivated discrimination is also reported in the pro-Western Kurdish Regional Government (KRG). According to the State Department, Christians and other minorities "living in areas north of Mosul asserted that the KRG confiscated their property... without compensation and ... Assyrian Christians also alleged that the Kurdish Democratic Party-dominated judiciary routinely discriminates against non-Muslims." ChaldoAssyrian Christians have also alleged that KRG officials affiliated with the Kurdistan Democratic Party deny Christians key social benefits, including employment and housing.⁸⁸

On May 31, 2007 Shiites occupied the Angel Raphael Convent, belonging to the Chaldean Sisters of the Scared Heart, in Dora, Baghdad and turned it into a base for military operations.⁸⁹

On October 8, 2002 the Kurdish Parliament of north Iraq adopted a resolution⁹⁰ on the formal and legal transfer of illegally expropriated Assyrian lands to their Kurdish squatters. The directive entitled "General Conditions for the Ownership of Illegally Obtained Lands" mandated the conditions necessary for official governmental land deeds to be granted to Kurdish squatters. According to the directive, all lands confiscated "prior to and until January 1, 2000" were targeted for ownership transfer. Both private and government owned lands were included in the resolution. The directive authorized a State Planning Board dominated by Kurds to oversee the surveying of the subject lands including urban areas and their surrounding villages. The directive authorized an appraisal of any occupied land and stipulated that no land may be appraised for less than 50 dinars per square meter (approximately 3 US dollars). The practical effect of the resolution was to legally transfer Assyrian lands that were illegally confiscated to Kurdish persons.⁹¹

Targeting Villages

Assyrian villages are targeted by Kurds. The USCIRF report states:

Additional reports also alleged that foreign reconstruction assistance for ChaldoAssyrian communities was being controlled by the KRG without input from that community's legitimate leaders. KRG officials were also reported to have used public works projects to divert water and other vital resources from ChaldoAssyrian to Kurdish communities. These deprivations reportedly threatened the safety of ChaldoAssyrians leading to mass exodus, which was later followed by the seizure and conversion of abandoned ChaldoAssyrian property by the local Kurdish population. Turkmen groups in the region surrounding Tel Afer also report similar abuses by Kurdish officials, suggesting a pattern of pervasive discrimination, harassment, and marginalization. Combined with non-state sources of instability, including violence from foreign jihadis and Sunni insurgents, the KRG's practices add to the continuing flight of Iraq Christians and other ethnic and religious minorities to sanctuaries outside the country.

The report makes these recommendations:

Declare and establish a proportional allocation of foreign assistance funding for ChaldoAssyrian, Yazidi, Sabaen Mandeian, and other religious minority communities, ensure that the use of these funds is determined by independent ChaldoAssyrian or other minority national and town representatives, and establish direct lines of communication by such independent structures into the allocation process of the Iraqi national government in Baghdad, separate from the KRG, in order to ensure that U.S. assistance benefits all religious and ethnic minority groups and is not being withheld by Kurdish officials or other local and regional governments;

Address with regional Kurdish authorities the reports of attacks on religious and other minorities and the expropriation of ChaldoAssyrian property, and seek the return of property or restitution, as well as assurances that there will be no official discrimination practiced against minority communities; and Collaborate with Iraqi and KRG officials to establish an independent commission to examine and resolve outstanding land claims involving ChaldoAssyrian and other religious minorities in the Kurdish regions.

On August 25, 1999 armed men of the Kurdistan Democratic Party (KDP) imposed a blockade against a string of eight Assyrian villages in the Nahla area of northern Iraq. Earlier in August, the KDP had ordered the villagers not to transport any food into the villages under threat of force. Having no other viable recourse, the villagers appealed to United Nations (UN) and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) monitors in northern Iraq to intervene on the Assyrians' behalf. The UN and the ICRC demanded a lifting of the blockade against the Assyrian villages because a portion of provisions directly originated from the UN "oil for food" Resolution 986 program. In order not to appear to be in defiance of a UN resolution, the Kurds temporarily relented. But intimidation and on again off again blockades continued despite UN protests.

Following the initially successful UN and ICRC intervention, armed KDP men continued their campaign of terror against the Assyrian villages. On the night of August 27 and 28, the Kurds besieged the village of Kash Kawa and indiscriminately fired automatic weapon rounds upon Assyrian homes. No Assyrians were harmed by the shots although livestock were killed and property was damaged. The armed KDP operatives subsequently entered the village intimidating the inhabitants. Residents of the village were pulled from their homes in the middle of the night and gathered into a group. Mindful of previous Kurdish atrocities, women and children cried in horror and fear. Two Assyrian men, Mr. Samir Daniel and Mr. Yonadam Moshe were singled out from the crowd and severely beaten upon their heads with butts of rifles, leading to concussions and severe external hemorrhaging – all before terrified women and children.⁹²

Forcibly Transferring Children of the Group to Another Group

June, 2007

According to an Iraqi government employee, in the Hay al-Amiriya quarter a Sunni "Amir" (prince) demanded the car belonging to an Assyrian brother and sister who are orphans; their priest advised them to give up the car, which they did. The "prince" later returned and officially asked for the girl's hand in marriage. The girl had to go into hiding.⁹³

May, 2007-06-04

In Dora, a predominantly Assyrian neighborhood in south Baghdad, an al-Qaeda "prince" instructed the Christian Assyrians to surrender women to the mosque. In a report by the Catholic News Agency, Mar Addai II, the Patriarch of the Ancient Assyrian Church of the East, says "Only the families that agree to give a daughter or sister in marriage to a Muslim can remain, which means that the entire nuclear family will progressively become Muslim."⁹⁴

September 16, 1996

Witnesses in North Iraq said that a group of armed PKK Kurdish guerillas abducted a fifteen-year-old Assyrian girl named Ahlam Patrus Nissan from her village. Local farmers and others who witnessed the kidnapping said they saw the girl being carried off with an expression of fear on her face. The PKK admitted that they had the girl but they claim she joined them willfully. They have refused to allow anyone to speak to her. She was forced to marry her kidnapper and convert to Islam.⁹⁵

January 20, 1996.

13 year-old Janet Oshana, from the village of Mulla-Urab, near the town of Zakho, was kidnapped by a Kurd, Khorshid Othman Kalash. She was never returned to her parents.⁹⁶

January 13, 1996

Wasan Mishael, a 16 year-old Assyrian girl from Simele, was kidnapped at gunpoint from her home. Under extreme emotional and physical pressure and abuse, she was forced to denounce her Christian religion and marry one of her kidnapers.⁹⁷

1993

Mr. Lazar Mati daughter, 15, was kidnapped by a Kurd named Mohamed Babakir and forced to marry him and convert to Islam.⁹⁸

December 13, 1997. Duhok, North Iraq. 7 murdered.

Kurdish militia men ambushed seven unarmed Assyrian civilian. Two were immediately killed in the initial volley of gunfire. Five others were seriously wounded. The Kurdish guerillas reportedly approached the remaining five wounded Assyrians and, seeing that they were still alive, shot four of them dead as they lay bleeding. Those killed were all residents of Mangesh and included Slewo Khoshaba, Samir Esho, Majid Shimon, Arkhan Hermiz, Salem Yousif and Najid Mikho. One woman, Wardia Yousif the wife of Najid Mikho, survived with a serious leg wound until December 26th when she too died.²⁸¹

July 27, 1997. Baghdad. 2 murdered.

Three armed men entered the home of Polus Younan, in the N'eriya w'Gayra' section of Baghdad. Mr. Younan, his wife Medina Shinoel, and their 16 year old son, Maffai were there. Ms. Medina Shinoel survived the attack and reported her account to the police. She witnessed the repeated stabbing of her husband in the back with a large knife until the blade of the knife protruded through Mr. Younan's chest. Upon dying, Mr. Younan was rolled into sheets by one assailant as the other two attackers turned their attention to Ms. Shinoel. The attackers began striking Ms. Shinoel with the butt end of their rifles until most of her teeth were broken. Throughout the attack, the assailants demanded information regarding the family's money and savings. The attackers then started slashing Ms. Shinoel's 16-year-old son, Mattai in order to obtain more information. Since the boy is deaf and mute, he was unable to satisfy the attackers' questioning. They proceeded to slash the boy until he began to slowly lose consciousness, at which point they moved him to the bathroom and placed him in a bathtub.²⁸²

April 12, 1997. Baghdad. 1 murdered.

Yousif John Yacoub, 35, was brutally stabbed to death in his home. Three Arab men, employed as school guards in a nearby school, were allegedly instructed by a cleaning woman at the same school to attack and rob Mr. Yacoub. According to Mr. Yacoub's neighbors who witnessed the attack, Mr. Yacoub was stabbed in the back, neck and abdomen. The neighbors notified the police, who arrived prior to Mr. Yacoub's death. Mr. Yacoub survived long enough to identify his attackers and to give the name of a nearby relative to be notified. The police kept Mr. Yacoub in his home for questioning while he was bleeding uncontrollably until his death. They never sought to transport him to a hospital in time to save his life. In addition, Mr. Yacoub's relative was never contacted. The relative heard about the incident one day later, at which point Mr. Yacoub had already died. Mr. Yacoub's relative finally arrived at the home only to find that the police had ransacked the place and removed any valuables or evidence. Two weeks later, Mr. Ameer Shurta, a high ranking police officer and member of the ruling Ba'ath party, along with his wife and children, occupied Mr. Yacoub's house.²⁸³

Lazar Mati and his son Havel Lazar were dragged out of their prison by a vigilante group of 200 armed Kurds and were brutally killed. Prior to their murder, they were taunted, tortured, and finally butchered. Before the murder, 100 Kurds stormed the family home of Mr. Mati and burned it to the ground. Mr Mati and his son had been falsely accused of killing a Kurd and arrested.²⁸⁴

March 6, 1995. Aqra. 1 murdered.

Mr. Edward Khoshaba of Aqra was tending his sheep last year when he came across 3 Kurds who had killed and butchered some of his livestock. When confronted, the Kurds attempted to kill Mr. Khoshaba. Mr. Khoshaba was able to kill 2 of the attackers before the third fled to his home village. Reportedly, when the Kurd returned to his home village, a celebration had ensued as the Kurdish villagers had assumed that the Kurdish intruders had successfully killed Mr. Khoshaba in addition to his livestock. When they learned that 2 of the Kurdish intruders had died instead, the entire village mobilized to exact revenge.

Mr. Khoshaba likewise fled to an area controlled by his Assyrian compatriots. A standoff ensued for some time until Mr. Khoshaba's parents (fearing a wholesale escalation in violence) convinced Mr. Khoshaba to turn himself in to the local authorities for an investigation and trial. Needless to say, the Kurdish authorities released Mr. Khoshaba to the relatives of the Kurdish intruders. He was tied up in their village and eventually butchered into hundreds of pieces on March 6, 1995. Prior to his death, he was reportedly struck in the head repeatedly by an axe by one of the elder women of the village. None of his murderers have been brought to justice.²⁸⁵

Appendix 3 History of Assyrian Genocide

Assyrian Genocides of the 20th Century

The genocide Assyrians, Armenians and Greeks in Ottoman Turkey, planned by Turks and executed largely by Kurds, was the first genocide of the 20th century. It began on April 24, 1915 and culminated at the end of the war in 1918. 2.65 million Christians were massacred: 750,000 Assyrians (75% of the population), 1.5 million Armenians and 400,000 Greeks. The Assyrians call this genocide Seyfo (Sword)²⁸⁶.

The massacre of Assyrian villagers in the town of Simmele, North Iraq, and its surroundings was the second²⁸⁷. On August 8-11, 1933 the Iraqi army, under the leadership of Bakir Sidqi, a Kurd, killed 3000 men, women and children in the village of Simmele and its surroundings. This was one of the first acts of the new Iraq, having gained its independence from the British in 1932.

It was this Simmele Massacre which inspired Raphael Lemkin, the author of the UN Convention on Genocide, to coin the term *Genocide*²⁸⁸.

Assyrian Genocides of the 19th Century

In October, 1829 the Kurdish leader Rwandez initiated a pogrom against Assyrians of the Syrian Orthodox Church in North Iraq and Syria. The first village that was attacked was Bit-Zabda, where 200 men were killed. Subsequently, the Kurds stormed the Asfas village, first slaying the leader, Deacon Rais Arabo, and then Reverend Aziz. Eighty children fleeing to a nearby valley were attacked and murdered by the pursuing Kurds. The young girls of the village were unclothed. The girls were enslaved while the others were shot on-site. The attackers then moved to Nisibin, on the border of Turkey and Syria, and repeated similar atrocities.²⁸⁹

In 1842 Badr Khan Beg, A Hakkari (southeast Turkey) Kurdish Amir, combined with other Kurdish forces led by Nurallah, attacked the Assyrians, intending to burn, kill, destroy, and, if possible, exterminate the Assyrians from the mountains. The Kurds destroyed and burned whatever came within their reach. An indiscriminate massacre took place. The women were brought before the Amir and murdered in cold blood. The aged mother of Mar Shimun, the Patriarch of the Church of the East, was seized by them, and after having practiced on her the most abominable atrocities, they cut her body into two parts and threw it into the river Zab, exclaiming, "go and carry to your accursed son the intelligence that the same fate awaits him." Nearly ten thousand Assyrians were massacred, and as large a number of woman and children were taken captive, most of whom were sent to Jezirah to be sold as slaves, to be bestowed as presents upon the influential Muslims.²⁹⁰

On Monday, January 1, 1895 Kurdish soldiers initiated a genocide in the city of Urfa (ancient Urhai), Ottoman Turkey. The attackers were indiscriminate, slaughtering Assyrians of all denominations. One soldier, Sheik Hassan, boasted that he alone killed 40 Assyrians during that day. The Kurdish soldiers besieged the city to prevent Christians from escaping, and slowly entered the village and murdered every Assyrian in site. Assyrian population centers were attacked in the following order:

1. Village of Soyirkah
2. City of Bila Jokah
3. City of Amid
4. Village of Mlatiya
5. Mar'ash and Siwas, and all their surrounding villages.

100,000 Assyrians were killed in 2 days.²⁹¹

A History of Genocide

Since 630 A.D., the coming of Islam, Assyrians have suffered 30 genocides at the hands of Muslims. Subtracting 661 (the first genocide) from 2007 and dividing by 30 yields 45 years -- the frequency of Assyrian genocides. On average, every second Assyrian generation has suffered genocide.²⁹²
